Dear Service spouses and partners,

In these challenging times, we are writing to you to provide some reassurance that we understand the concerns you may have regarding your employment and wider family dynamics. We are engaging regularly with charitable organisations, the Families Federations and academia to improve employment opportunities for Service partners and spouses. We are keenly aware of the impact that Service life may have on your careers and employment opportunities, and in turn that the current crisis we as a nation find ourselves in, may have further compounded some of these difficulties.

We'd like to thank you for the continued support you give to our Service Personnel which ensures we can maintain operational readiness and also that we can play our part in helping the Nation's fight against COVID-19. We know that this sometimes comes at a cost to family life and your own career particularly at a time of additional home-schooling responsibilities, without the presence of trusted family members and indeed extra caring responsibilities for elderly relatives to consider. For families with additional needs the changes to routines and difficulty accessing support you have previously relied upon will make this even tougher. The transition of easing the lockdown may also present difficulties in the form of new routines depending on your employer's policies and interpretation of government advice. We would like to inform you however that under new regulations as part of a 'support bubble' for those Service families, with a partner deployed, you are allowed to visit and stay with one other family with your children. This 'support bubble' would only apply to one other household.

The MOD's Partner Employment Steering Group which includes representatives from the single Services, Families Federations and academic experts in the field of partner employment, continues to meet virtually to discuss what support we can provide to you and to ensure that it is coherent and meets your needs. The group understands that the current crisis will for many of you exacerbate some of the difficulties you already face. Acknowledging this they asked that we as Minister for Defence People and Veterans and Director of Armed Forces Personnel Policy, write to you to emphasise this and to signpost you to existing resources and organisations that may be helpful. The annex included with this letter provides details of the employment support that is available to partners and spouses. For example, information about Families Forces Jobs: a job platform specifically for Service families.

Finally, we urge you to keep looking after yourselves and keep on supporting each other as you are so good at doing, whilst adhering to the Government's latest guidelines.

Yours sincerely,

X-Forces Enterprise

X-Forces Enterprise has launched a fully funded programme that is exclusively designed to help businesses, sole-traders, free-lancers etc from the armed forces community in the quest to support them during COVID 19.

With over 800 businesses supported from grassroots that are spouses or partner led and many more that are part of the XFE community (2000+) we felt we needed to help and provide a further handrail at this time.

The trigger to design this programme was through demand from beneficiaries wanting to understand better (in-addition to sign-posting) the support available to them from government initiatives such as Small Business Grants to Bounce Bank Loans; from Furloughing to Self-Employment Income Support schemes. But what does this all mean if lockdown is 3-6-12months? What does this mean to individual business sectors post the initial funding support? and more importantly to well-being and not feeling alone when isolation is part of the strategy. Of course, business owners often say it is lonely at the best of times and so at this time of crisis that feeling can perhaps be even more heightened with the added weight of financial insecurity.

For this reason, the Directors at XFE have put together a programme to help the community with bespoke support at this time of uncertainty and provide a network for business continuity strategies for the coming months, or at least that's the aspiration so no one is feeling alone and get a sense of reassurance and belonging through XFE facilitating but more importantly with each other on the programme post event.

*NB It is important to note this is for business owners who are already up and running and not a business start-up programme.

Recruit for Spouses

Recruit for Spouses (RfS) is a specialised recruitment agency bridging a gap between employers and military spouses. RFS create work with companies that offer home based flexible roles for military spouses

During the pandemic, the RFS Career Academy have teamed up with a top Global employer to create the first military spouse focused Mentoring Programme. The programme is developed specifically for spouses who have been impacted by COVID19 and who find themselves furloughed, out of work or unsure of how to pick up their job hunt.

The bespoke mentoring programme offers one-to-one support and guidance as well as providing an insight into a large corporate organisation. It will provide spouses with an opportunity to ask for and be shown well-trodden career paths. Email: coaching@recruitforspouses.co.uk for more information.

The Military Coworking Network

What is the Military Coworking Network?

The MCN is a community of military spouses working together to create a network of coworking office spaces on military bases, supported by an online community for spouses everywhere.

Whether you are employed, furloughed, run your own business or are studying from home, our online coworking community allows us all to network, share contacts and ask each other for help and ideas about different ways of maintaining careers and businesses that work around our transient military lifestyles.

Having a dedicated space where we can go to work and study together not only reduces social isolation; our off and online communities offer help and support to enable us to maintain flexible jobs which work around our military lifestyle.

With the current lockdown restrictions all of our hubs are closed at the moment, but our online community is thriving.

Join our Facebook Military Coworking Community group to share insights into professional training, business skills and job opportunities, all focused on remote, flexible working and provided by our members, for our members.

What are Military Coworking Hubs?

The coworking hubs are fully equipped office spaces on bases throughout the UK and Europe.

They provide the facilities that you would expect in any office (a quiet workspace that isn't the kitchen table, fast Wi-Fi, printing & good coffee!) but more importantly they can give you access to local professional networking opportunities for your career or business, information about employers in the local area, higher education opportunities and the chance to meet new people and make friends.
